
Training fits transformations and models; validation chooses the threshold; test data only evaluates the frozen model.